Our attendance record to January 1 is 96.22 per cent. This attendance record is below standard for a school of this size due to pupils being out of school for reasons other than illness and doctors' appointments. With the cooperation of the parents I am sure that this record will improve. Our tardiness record to date reads 55 tardies. This is below average for a school of this size and is below the state average.

Scholarships

For pupils wishing to get better than passing marks home study is necessary. The eight period day used by Woodstock High School allows the pupils to do some of their studying in school, but studying should and must be taken home in order to receive credit marks or better. A ninth period is now conducted for all of those pupils who receive warnings. This period is for the purpose of studying and extra help from the teacher if necessary.

Extra Curricular

Touch football, volley ball and deck tennis were played by the majority of the pupils during the Fall months. A skating rink has been constructed and will be in use as soon as the weather permits. A skiing team for both boys and girls will be organized and skiing lessons will be given if conditions permit. Thanks to the Lincoln School Board, we are able to have the Lincoln Gym one night a week for basketball. This is not to organize any team, but merely a period for instruction and intramural games. Baseball for both boys and girls will be played in the spring. Due to the ruling of the New Hampshire Headmasters Association, no pupil is allowed to participate in any sport who is failing more than one subject.

The annual Senior play, "Hello Trouble," was presented in November.

The school socials have picked up in attendance during the past months. Square dancing as well as ballroom dancing is part of the evening entertainment. The socials are chaperoned by the teachers of the school.

Graduates

There were seven graduates last June. One is attending college, one married, three are employed, and two unemployed.

Teachers

We are most fortunate this year to have a fine group of teachers throughout the building, and it is my hope that the salaries will be sufficient to induce them to stay.

For the teaching staff and myself, I wish to thank everyone connected with the schools for their helpful cooperation.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT C. GILMAN,

Headmaster

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the Woodstock School Board:

My sixth annual report as superintendent of Woodstock schools is now submitted for your consideration. In it you will find a discussion of school problems and information that may be helpful in shaping future school policy.

For the second consecutive year we began the term with a complete change in the High School faculty. Lack of continuity of service is usually a severe handicap in the administration of any school but fortunately its effects have not been felt this year. It is a pleasure to report that in my opinion your high school is being more efficiently operated than at any other time since 1943. There seems to be a more enthusiastic interest in the community, and, in general, pupils seem to be more appreciative of the opportunities that are made available to them. Leadership and sincerity on the part of the headmaster have contributed largely to this situation.

While the high school is being operated efficiently it is not, and cannot be, operated economically with a student membership as limited as ours. The per pupil cost of operation is high. That cost will always be high so long as certain fixed charges are spread over a small pupil base. Those charges would be no greater if incurred for a maximum pupil registration. These are some of the considerations that make me hesitate to suggest some additions to our school program that would be entirely praiseworthy and advisable in a larger school. We cannot be unmindful that schools like businesses should maintain a proper balance between investment and output, between stock in trade and their clientele.

Over the state as a whole more and more thought is being given to ways and means of making school dollars buy more services and greater educational returns. One of the ways in which it can be done is by a pooling of resources by several school districts instead of continuing individual and isolated efforts. A law permitting the establishment of cooperative school districts was passed by the 1947 Legislature and seems to offer one solution to the problem. Perhaps by the time this report is in print, Woodstock people will have given careful thought to this way of enlarging school returns as delineated in the above mentioned law. If such is not the case, then those possibilities ought to be thoroughly explored.

The School Board is to be commended for progressive and constructive thinking which grew into an offer to increase by one hundred dollars the salary of any elementary teacher who completed approved work in a 1948 summer school. Every elementary teacher completed such work with benefit both to themselves and to their pupils. Summer school attendance, with proper financial recognition, might profitably be required of all teachers once in every three year period.

School districts, like families, sometimes find that increasing numbers overtax both living quarters and budgets. That realization has come to Woodstock in at least two schools. Registration at the Center and in the primary room at North Woodstock cannot be increased beyond present numbers without serious consequences. In fact, this is the second year that grade one and two membership at North Woodstock has gone beyond the number one teacher should be expected to direct. 1948 census returns indicate that large entering classes may be expected for several years.

The unused room at the Center School gives us space in which to absorb some of the increase in school population if another teacher can be employed. The use of that room may well lead to transportation problems and decisions that will be unpopular but it seems to offer the only immediate solution to the problem of serious overcrowding. Temporary inconvenience is to be preferred to permanent loss that may come to pupils who are assigned to lower grade groups of unworkable size. Unless we so expand our school space it may be necessary to adopt half-day sessions in some schools.

Music instruction in six of the seven towns in Supervisory Union No. 48 is being given by Stephen E. Childs of Rumney who devotes his entire time to that work. Since his whole time instead of half of it is now available for work in this Union, our children are receiving more instruction in this important branch of education. We hope the same plan may be followed as long as present arrangements remain mutually satisfactory. It is with great satisfaction that I see Woodstock pupils benefitting from a kind of training that would have meant so much to me if my own school experience had afforded me the opportunity that is now theirs.

Your attention is directed to reports written by Headmaster Gilman and the School Nurse in which specific needs and suggestions are presented.

My continued service in your schools confirms earlier estimates of the interest of Woodstock parents, willingness of the town to meet its full educational obligations, and the sincere efforts of the school board members. For all assistance and courtesies extended to me my appreciation is here expressed.

Respectfully submitted,

ARTHUR S. ROLLINS,

Superintendent of Schools
